Three Breaks Remain Unsolved; Thieves Took Close To $1,000

Andover's three big-money breaks are still unsolved. Over $900 has been taken from three stores within the past 18 days. They were The Cordial Shop on Barnard st. between March 15-17; Johnny's Supermarket on Park st., March 25 and the Andover Market on Elm st., March 25.

Police Chief David Nicoll commented "absolutely nothing" Tuesday afternoon when asked if anything has developed leading to a solution.

The Cordial Shop was looted of $58 in rolled coins. Johnny's Supermarket reported a loss of at least $750 and the Andover Market was taken for over $100. No merchandise was touched in any of the stores, police said.

Water Supply Is Vital Issue

Merrimack College buildings in Andover will be a reality within a few years.

And Very Rev. Vincent J. McQuade, O.S.A., president of the College, wants to know where the water will come from to service the buildings tentatively planned for the Flying Feather Farm area — as well as for two contemplated buildings in No. Andover on which construction will start this summer.

He appeared before the Board of Public Works Monday night to outline the College's problems. Presently, the town supplies water to the College through a six-inch main. But Fr. McQuade and the Board agreed that taking any more water from that main will be im-

Mrs. Retelle Will Instruct Classes

Mrs. Albert R. Retelle, of Andover, has been appointed teacher for the Time and Energy Saving courses beginning April 1 and 2 at the Essex County Agricultural School in Middleton.

Mrs. Retelle graduated from the University of Massachusetts in 1952, where she majored in home economics and teaching. During her senior year she completed an honor's project that attracted much attention. It was a practical study and work simplification plan for her own mother's kitchen, which ultimately saved one-half of her time and energy. Slides showing the reorganization will be used in the new courses.

Other homes have benefited by Mrs. Retelle's interest in work simplification, as well as her own charming new home on Reservation rd. Two small children, Peter, age 2½, and Nancy, 1½ months, offer additional incentive for her and Mr. Retelle to streamline their work schedule. The careful planning, with equipment designed and arranged to save steps, and the correct working heights, help them to meet the requirements of a busy family life.

Mrs. Retelle met with her two classes in Simplified Household Management Monday and Tuesday to begin the new five-week series that have been developed through the Heart of the Home program of the Heart Association. They are offered free as a public service and will be sponsored by the Household Arts Division of the Massachusetts Department of Education. Miss Katherine Lawler, Essex County Extension Service, is in charge of registration. She reports that the April classes are filled and that those on the waiting list will be assigned to future classes, which will meet in various Essex County communities.

Clean-Up Week April 7-13

April 7-13 is clean-up week. Fire Chief Henry Hilton designated that seven-day period for all townspeople to clean up their yards and remove debris in which a fire might start. In conjunction with the town's fire prevention program, the department's fire prevention officer, to distribute questionnaires to all business establishments in the town. On these are pertinent questions about fire prevention and methods which will be answered by Chief Hilton in the weeks.

Hilton issued this reminder: "Trash fires and unattended bonfires can be dangerous to life and property. Teach youngsters to stay far away from any outdoor fires. They also be taught to report such fires to you at once. It's Spring time for clean-up week. Don't let a fire place to start."

Hilton also issued the following methods for controlling fires in the open - especially this busy outdoor season:

Never burn on a dry, windy day. Remember that an innocent small fire may suddenly become a dangerous size. The time to burn is when the debris is dry and when the wind is not blowing. In northern New England it's best to delay brush burning until the snow is on the ground.

Always get a fire permit from the fire department or fire warden. Let your neighbors know you're going to burn. If you permit assumes that you will use your good judgement; if you burn, winds come up, forget burning. Remember that a fire does not exempt you from liability to your neighbor's property. Fire gets out of control, it exempts you from prosecution for illegal burning.

Always burn against the wind. It acts as a natural barrier to the fire's spread.

If you are going to burn, plow, or clear a field around the field to prevent fire from escaping to adjacent property. Burn only small sections at a time. Set the fire far from the edges of your fire lanes or barriers, such as roads or buildings, fencing and wood. Set up special safeguards in case the fire should escape. Have you ever had that feeling of seeing a fire

Clean-Up Week
April 7-13

April 7-13 is clean-up week. Fire Chief Henry Hilton has designated that seven-day period for all townspeople to clean up for all townspeople to clean up debris in which a fire might start.

In conjunction with the week, he has assigned Lt. Albert Cole, the department's fire prevention officer, to distribute questionnaires to all business establishments in the town. On the form are pertinent questions about the firm's fire prevention and safety methods which will be analyzed by Chief Hilton in the coming weeks.

Hilton issued this reminder: "Trash fires and unsupervised bonfires can be dangerous both to life and property. Teach your youngsters to stay far away from any outdoor fires. They should also be taught to report such fires to you at once. It's Spring — and time for clean-up week. Don't give a fire a place to start."

Hilton also issued the following methods for controlling fires in the open — especially during this busy outdoor season:

Never burn on a dry, windy day. Remember that an innocent looking small fire may suddenly blow up to dangerous size. The safest time to burn is when the dew is on the ground and when the wind is not blowing. In northern areas it's best to delay brush burning until the snow is on the ground.

Always get a fire permit from the fire department or fire warden. Let your neighbors know when you're going to burn. But the permit assumes that you will use your good judgement; if sudden winds come up, forget about burning. Remember that a permit does not exempt you from damage to your neighbor's property if the fire gets out of control, it merely exempts you from prosecution for illegal burning.

Always burn against the wind for it acts as a natural brake on the fire's spread.

If you are going to burn a field — plow, or clear a fire lane around the field to prevent your fire from escaping to adjoining property. Burn only small sections at a time. Set the fire from the edges of your fire lanes or other barriers, such as roads or streams. Set up special safeguards around buildings, fencing and woodlands in case the fire should escape.

Have you ever had that helpless feeling of seeing a fire fan out with incredible speed and, utterly exhausted from heat and exertion, armed only with a broom or a rake, you watch it race toward valuable property? Have plenty of help and proper tools when you burn. In some rural communities "burning teams" or "fire squads" are formed to help burn each other's land safely or control fires that get out of hand. When you burn, have long lengths of charged garden hose, brooms, rakes, shovels and pump tank, or backpack extinguishers — and plenty of water.

Don't be afraid to call the fire department if the fire is in any danger of getting out of control. Many field fires that have gotten out of hand have burned out whole sections of communities. Always have your fire department number posted near your telephone; if there is a fire alarm box — know where it is and how to work it.

If you must burn a pile of trash outdoors, have a cleared strip of earth around the pile. The same advice applies to wire and sheet metal trash burners. Don't try to burn too much at one time. Have a few pails of water ready and a rake or wet broom. Soak embers with water; stir to be sure all embers are wet. Capricious wind can fan up embers that are seemingly dead. "Make sure that all fires are thoroughly out before you leave."

Top Student Artist Will Make It A Career

Susan Bird puts the finishing touches on some original art work. She will make art her career, after graduation from Punchard this spring. (Leone)

Susan Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Bird of Alden rd. and a senior at Punchard High School, has chosen art as her future vocation.

Next year Sue hopes to be enrolled at Skidmore College preparing for her future career. Sue says that she can't remember a time when art wasn't her special interest and painting her favorite pastime. She thanks Miss Frances Dalton, Art teacher for both Punchard and Junior High students, for stimulating her ever-increasing enthusiasm for art. Of Sue, Miss Dalton states: "Susan's buoyancy of spirit and individuality are reflected by her work. Her awareness that art reflects truth and life and her understanding and knowledge of its principles enables her to produce creative ideas that find their solutions in many varied and diversified forms of expression."

Each year since the eighth grade, Sue has entered her work in the Scholastic Art Exhibit and with the exception of the 10th grade has won several Gold Keys annually. Last year she also won two places at the National Art Exhibit.

In Miss Dalton's classes, Sue has had the opportunity of working with many different types of mediums such as water colors, sketcho, block printing, clay sketcho, block printing, clay statue work, tempera, ink and oil. With this large number of mediums at her disposal, Sue has had the opportunity to experiment widely, but as yet she has no special favorite.

This year, through the Junior Red Cross, Sue will send her work to the International Exhibit. Before it is sent, however, all her work will be displayed in the high school shortly after the spring vacation. With all these special exhibits coming in the near future, it can be readily understood why Sue spends every spare minute at work in the art room.

Worth Tasting

Stealing recipes from the Gourmet has been a very quiet business up till now. "Where's the better word . . . but either way, it's a crime, really, has it not? And forthwith please release some of these gems each week for your pleasure.

All recipes appearing here have been more than "tested." They come from personal "success" files — kitchens — all people you know — who are your neighbors and who regard cookery as a wonderful art.

Mrs. Irving Rogers, for example, is the wife of our esteemed publisher. She has a flair for the all-American casserole and one she has recently relinquished to us is only delicious but quite new to the Lenten season — easy to prepare! It's her

SCALLOPED TUNA CASSEROLE

5 cooked potatoes
1 (7 oz.) can Tuna
1 Tbl. diced onion
1 can condensed celery
Bread crumbs
Paprika

Slice potatoes and fill with a fork. Mrs. Rogers drains the tuna in oil, drains the oil to pour over the mixture before baking. She uses a medium-sized, grease-proof pan (for 6) with alternate potatoes, tuna, and celery soup until all the crumbles, then the oil and this takes only a baking in a hot oven, (450° F.).

What Mrs. Rogers does with the salt shaker and pepper is anybody's guess, but it's motion and just as swift.

A delicious tossed salad of fresh greens is getting "must" in the way of accompaniment.

Another delicious Lenten comes from up Circle way, and is easy to prepare, too, if you use shrimp. Mrs. Westhaver buys the fresh and goes through the trouble of cleaning and cooking them herself (a job made easier by the shrimpmaster's recipe):

Paprika

Slice potatoes and flake tuna with a fork. Mrs. Rogers chooses the tuna in oil, drains it, saving the oil to pour over the final mixture before baking. She then fills a medium-sized, greased, casserole (for 6) with alternate layers of potatoes, tuna, onion and celery soup until all are used, sprinkles the top with bread crumbs, then the oil and paprika. This takes only a 30-minute baking in a hot oven, (400 degree F).

What Mrs. Rogers does with the salt shaker and pepper mill is anybody's guess, but it's a light motion and just as swift.

A delicious tossed salad of fresh greens is generally a "must" in the way of an accompaniment.

SHRIMP-MACARONI
CASSEROLE

(Mrs. George B. Westhaver)
Another delicious casserole for Lent comes from up Cheever Circle way, and is easy to prepare, too, if you use canned shrimp. Mrs. Westhaver, however, buys the fresh and goes to the trouble of cleaning and cooking them herself (a job made easy with the shrimpmaster). Here's her recipe:

1 lb. small elbow macaroni

2 cups shrimp
3 hard cooked eggs
1 cup grated (American) cheese
Paprika

(Cream Sauce)

2 Tbl. flour
2 Tbl. butter
1½ tsp. salt
freshly ground pepper
2 cups milk.

Cook and drain macaroni. Arrange macaroni, cleaned shrimp, sliced eggs and cheese in alternate layers in greased 2 qt. casserole. Make cream sauce of remaining ingredients and pour over mixture. Save enough of cheese for topping. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in 425 degree oven for 30 minutes. Six generous servings.

Amend Betterment Assessments

Betterment assessments are a real — not a fancied — problem for many property owners in this town.

When town meeting adopted the betterment act, it said the Board of Public Works shall assess the betterments. The law does not say "may". Thus, every time water extensions are finished, all property owners receive bills based on the frontage they own along the street. For some, the payment is nominal. Others, who own land along the street, are thankful for water because they wish to develop the area.

But there are always a few who are badly hurt by the betterment assessment.

Some receive bills for $1000 and up — and already have town water from another street. Others happen to own large lots. They welcome the town water, but can't afford the tremendous amount charged for its installation.

Yet the Board has no authority to reduce the assessment or take it off altogether, for the town has said it "shall" be assessed. Sometimes abatements can be given on a few feet of frontage, in cases where a person owns a corner lot and gets water already from another street. But even then, that person has to pay most of the assessment.

There is no hardship abatement allowed. The only alternative to paying the bill as presented is to put it on a 10-year lien — paying one tenth of the bill each year plus interest.

To these persons — and they perhaps are a minority of those affected by the assessments — some relief should be offered.

The betterment act works well in most cases and is justly used to insure the taxpayers that those persons receiving the benefits pay for them.

But like many laws, when this one was written by the state and made available for acceptance by the communities, it was inflexible. The BPW has no choice, it must assess the betterments. Whatever members personally feel, they are doing what the town meeting ordered done.

We believe the town should take steps to amend the law, so that cases of real hardship can be handled with common sense. As it stands now, the betterment act is harsh on a few residents who deserve better treatment from their community.

However, reasonable care should be taken, while amending the law, to retain the provisions that allow betterments to be assessed in most cases — for the majority of landowners welcome the water and are willing and able to pay for it.

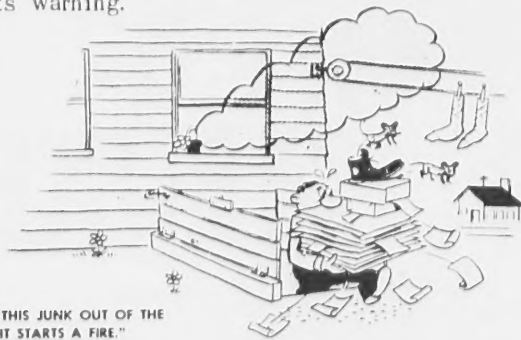

Clean-Up Week

Next week is Clean-Up Week.

During the week, from the 7th through 13th, every resident has been asked to clean out the winter's accumulation of rubbish, old newspapers and other debris — as well as the accumulations of no-longer-needed articles stored in attics, cellars and garages.

The whole idea is based on a practical goal — reducing the number of fires by removing collections of combustible materials.

We should support the effort by our Fire Department by heeding its warning.

"I'D BETTER GET THIS JUNK OUT OF THE HOUSE BEFORE IT STARTS A FIRE."

What Our Readers Say—

To the Editor of the Townsman:

"With respect to Dino Valz's cogent review of the public school problems before us which you printed in your March 28 issue, it's interesting to note the following quoted from the front page of the Christian Science Monitor of the same date:

"'Another idea', Dr. John Sloan Dickey, president of Dartmouth College suggested, 'is the possibility of using the facilities and faculty of the college year around. Our trustees are interested in exploring this.'

"As Mr. Valz pointed out to us, such a plan would mean a more economical use of the school plant as well as make room for at least a quarter more students.

"It's remarkable that, in any town, its most expensive investment in real estate is without productive use up to 30 percent of the entire year."

Innovation At Senior Play

On April 5 and 6 the senior class of Punchard High School will present "Many Happy Returns," a lively three-act comedy, in the Memorial auditorium at 8 p.m.

An interesting innovation will be the placement of closed circuit television monitors throughout the audience. This will enable the audience to view the play live and on television simultaneously. This project, run in cooperation with the P.H.S. Audio-Visual Club, is affiliated with the Educational Television Committee.

The play, written by Mrs. Priscilla Halliwell of Andover, concerns an old and rather crotchety gentleman approaching his 100th birthday, and his objections to the big celebration planned by his highly emotional daughter and her children. The amusing situations that develop and the bizarre characters that contribute to the plot are ably played by all all-senior cast.

Tickets are now on sale and can be purchased from any member of the senior class. It is the first play to be presented by Punchard students in several years.

BPW Considering Many Bid Items

Bids for many annual purchases were received by the Board of Public Works March 25. No contracts were awarded, however, as bid schedules will be made up during the week for many of the items.

Many firms bid on supplying the town with tar, oils of varying grades, asphalt and other road surface materials.

Bids were also received on grass seed, various spraying materials for the tree department, crushed stone of various sizes and on a testing machine.

The reception last Friday, given by the teachers of the John Dove and Samuel C. Jackson schools to the parents and members of the school committee, and those given this week by the Stowe and Bradlee schools on Wednesday and Thursday respectively, were very pleasant and profitable affairs.

According to a statement issued by Andover post, 2128, V.F.W., yesterday the organization will endeavor to secure employment for the idle men of the town. In order that the greatest number of men possible might be started to work, the sincere cooperation of the townspeople is solicited. Home and property owners are asked to contact one of the committee with any odd job that is current at this time of the year.

Coach James Cole of the Stowe baseball team had his charges out for the first time last Tuesday when about 45 boys reported. The captain of the team this year is James Platt, 15 years old.

Ralph Coleman, 42 Chestnut st., was this week appointed building inspector by the Board of Selectmen to succeed Edward R. Lawson who had submitted his resignation on being appointed superintendent of the Department of Public Works.

The auctioning of the Osgood School in West Andover only lasted 15 minutes on Saturday afternoon with the high bidder, Mrs. Hilda E. Fischer, 53 Weare st., Lawrence, obtaining the house and land for the sum of $3,005.

Jean Stillman, student at the New England Conservatory of Music, is on the Dean's list at the Conservatory, which includes students receiving honor grades in all subjects for the first semester.

The community room in Ballardvale will be festive with decorations and fancy hats on April 12 as Harold Bailey, leaving the humor and daring of Tom Brennenan, will kid his way through a "Breakfast in Hollywood" program. Mr. Rines, accused by Building Inspector Ralph W. Coleman of having started new construction on Chestnut st. without a permit, was duly brought by Chief of Police Nicolli, who presented the complaint.

Taking the stand beside Coleman were Mr. Rines and Lavell of Malden, who are the "footing" for a Malden contractor.

Mr. Hatch defended his client by holding that Mr. Coleman, as Building Inspector, has the legal right to issue a permit immediately upon presentation by the builder of all required data, showing

possible. "There isn't enough for one more house", commented Engineer Ralph Preble Jr.

Other alternatives seemed equally dubious to Fr. McQuade. They included sinking a well on the College property — but he doubted that it is a good place for a well; and hooking onto a North Andover main across from the College, which might create a problem for North Andover and would cause some changes in the plumbing system.

High Level System
Soon after Fr. McQuade explained his problem — involving the necessity of supplying water for two new structures by September of 1958 — the Board members commented that the recent water survey recommends making that area part of the high level system whenever growth in the area indicates the necessity of doing so.

The plan would be to carry a 12-inch main along Highland and Woodland roads, cut across to Summer st. to the intersection of Pine st. and then along Pine to Elm and to the College and then loop back through the Braeland section to Elm. The Camp. Dresser and McKee report lists this project as one without a time limit, while several other projects were listed for immediate attention.

One board member suggested that the special town meeting in May be asked to approve the plan in theory, without appropriating any funds. Then money could be requested in 1958, for completion of the work that September when the buildings will be done.

One Million Value

Fr. McQuade said the larger building, with some 600,000 cubic feet, will be a student union building. The smaller, at 400,000 cubic feet, will provide classroom space. Combined value of the structures is over one million dollars, he stated.

In the next few years, he explained, there will be a demand for more buildings, including dormitories. These may well be on the Andover portion of the College property, Fr. McQuade pointed out.

He suggested that some solution to the water problem now could be taken in light of the present building plans and those seen in the future. The work would also help to alleviate a bad situation in Andover, he continued, because the water supply for homes in the area is insufficient and water pressure for firefighting is inadequate.

The Board said it would have Mr. Preble draw up some cost estimates as a basis for an evening-long discussion with Fr. McQuade in the near future.

'em all for '57

Latest reports show that in the New England States, Ford is running away with the sales records and HERE'S WHY:

The new "Inner Ford" is really built!
Beneath Ford's beauty you'll find the kind of brawn that proved itself at Bonneville, Utah, where Ford set 458 national and world performance and endurance records. No wonder folks are sold on Ford.

You can pick your brand of GO
This year there's even more of Ford's great GO. You can pick your power to suit your driving needs from a whole family of mightier V-8's.

You can have the most modern Six of all ... the Ford Mileage Maker. Six or V-8, the going's great in Ford!

Ford is the lowest priced* of all
Another reason Ford is 1957's sellingest car is its low price. And Ford is traditionally worth more when you sell it, too. Ask your Ford Dealer how easy it is to own a new kind of Ford.

Donald D. Dunn, a member of the school system since 1936 where he has been physical education director, has been named athletic director.

Meeting Tuesday night, the School Committee appointed Dunn to the post in addition to his other duties. He will be charged with responsibility for athletics, coordinating various phases of the program. Kenneth McKiniry, who resigned recently as basketball coach, retains the position of faculty manager.

Also named at the meeting Tuesday night was Robert Collier, who steps up to the basketball coaches post vacated by McKiniry. He will receive $600 for the job. He has been baseball coach and assistant basketball coach.

The Committee also elected Carl Holt as assistant superintendent of custodians, to assist Fred Collins. He will receive an initial salary of $80 weekly. Nine candidates for the position were interviewed from among the local custodial force.

Also interviewed, but without decision, were several candidates for the Junior High School headmaster's post. Interviews of local candidates were held a short time ago.

The session Tuesday was closed because of the personnel problems to be discussed and the interviews scheduled during the evening.

At The Library

Spring Flowers

If the published notices of the week's spring book show were noticed, it's a sure thing the wonderful display of flower arrangements in every corner of the library the vast collection of distinguished spring books arrested the attention of those who pushed open the library doors.

The arrangements, created by members of the Garden Club, are outstandingly beautiful. Very much at home among the bookshelves, they lingered long — longer, perhaps, than the heady scents brought to their nostrils.

Among the arrangers were Mary Perkins, Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. Jerome Cross, Charles Hollis, Mrs. George and Mrs. Henry VanZandt. A contributor showed great ability and artistic feeling in the superb choices of color. Particularly drew commendation from men and women alike.

Choice of New Books

Out of some 200 new books the main reading room readers were filling out lists from the greatest variety of interest material the library ever assembled.

The table featured Japan, its art, its people, customs, language and others held the latest fiction there seemed to be a preponderance of biography and no support statistics which a great jump in reader interest in these categories.

With the most careful selection possible, Miss Minnie, librarian, has selected books on merits of readability, integrity of authorship, importance, and beauty of style. To highlight a few: "A T. A. Person," Wilson; "King of the Beasts," Huxley; "The Day After Tomorrow," Sheean; "Last Love," Sheean; "Andau," Michener; "Life," Selye.

A special booklist of new books may be had at the library.

Spring Flowers

If the published notices of last week's spring book showing went unnoticed, it's a sure thing that the wonderful display of spring flower arrangements in almost every corner of the library and the vast collection of new and distinguished spring books arrested the attention of all who pushed open the library doors.

The arrangements, created by members of the Garden Club, were outstandingly beautiful and so very much at home among the books! Many book browsers lingered long—longer, perhaps, for the pleasure the heady flower scents brought to their nostrils.

Among the arrangers were Mrs. Henry Perkins, Mrs. John M. Stewart, Mrs. Jerome Cross, Mrs. Charles Hollis, Mrs. George Gage and Mrs. Henry VanZandt. Each contributor showed great originality and artistic feeling; their superb choices of containers particularly drew comments from men and women alike.

Choice of New Books

Out of some 200 new books in the main reading room display, readers were filling out reserve lists from the greatest variety of interest material the library has ever assembled.

One table featured books on Japan, its art, its people, their customs, language and history. Others held the latest fiction, and there seemed to be a preponderance of biography and non-fiction to support statistics which show a great jump in reader interest for these categories.

With the most careful discrimination possible, Miss Miriam Putnam, librarian, has selected the books on merits of readability, integrity of authorship, factual importance, and beauty of format. To highlight a few: "A Teacher is A Person," Wilson; "Kingdom Of The Beasts," Huxley; "The Magway Story," Romulo; "First and Last Love," Sheean; "Bridge at Andau," Michener; "Stress of Life," Selye.

A special booklist of all titles may be had at the library.

New LP Recordings

Recent acquisitions to the record library include the important Wanda Landowska piano renditions of four sonatas, a rondo, and some country dances by Mozart. This is the album which took R.C.A. Victor two years of time and labor to record, as the aging but superb Landowska would allow only occasional sessions at her Lakeville, Conn., home. Critics acclaim the work for its remarkably articulate quality.

R.C.A.'s "Saint Joan," by George Bernard Shaw is one which lovers of the drama will want to borrow, for this is an original cast recording of the slightly abridged play with a fine rendering of Siobhan McKenna's dynamic speeches.

Richard Roger's "The King and I" with Deborah Kerr's motion picture sound track, is also among the many new recordings. This is a Capitol disk.

Hawaii With The Raftons

Many interested book lovers who filled the reading rooms last Saturday evening, joined friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rafton in the upper library lecture room at 8 o'clock to see beautiful color slides and hear Mr. Rafton speak on their trip to the Hawaiian Islands. This was the trip Mr. and Mrs. Rafton took last July with fellow members of the Appalachian Mountain Club.

Between 125 to 150 interested persons crowded the hall.

Nina Little To Speak At Annual Historical Meeting

One of the outstanding authorities in the field of American art — with numerous books, articles and monographs to do herself credit for her years of impeccable study — will be a guest of the Andover Historical Society at its annual meeting to be held at the Amos Blanchard House, 87 Main st., April 26.

Her name is Nina Fletcher Little, whose fine book-catalogue, entitled "The Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Collection," has just been published with the simultaneous opening and dedication of the Rockefeller collection and new house in Colonial Williamsburg. This house, designed in 19th century fashion, has been expressly built to house the 400 items of American folk art.

Mrs. Little's numerous articles have been appearing for years in leading antiquarian magazines and books. She has been a valuable consultant to the Rockefeller's on all primitive and folk art. Her husband, Bertram K. Little, with whom she lectures frequently and who will accompany her to Andover, is director of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities. Their home is in Brookline.

Mrs. Little has just finished a speaking engagement at the annual Antiques Forum at Williamsburg on "Antiquarians Shouldn't Go In Such Places." Her talk here is expected to be on "The Problems of Historical House-keeping."

The meeting will begin at 8 in the evening and during a short business session the annual election of officers for the Historical Society will take place. Miss Miriam Putnam is chairman of the nominating committee which also includes Bartlett Hayes and Henry Stevenson.

Four Firefighters Added To Force

Following the dictates of town meeting, four firefighters have joined the shifts on duty at the Central Fire Station.

Two, on permanent status, were named on a civil service list. They are Walter Winward of Wildwood rd. and Edward King of Gray rd.

Temporary appointments were given by Chief Henry Hilton, with the approval of the Selectmen, to Clark Otis and Roland Joy, both Andover st. residents. They will work until a civil service list is established from which permanent appointments can be made.

Chief Hilton said an exam will be held in June for those men interested in employment here. It is part of a state-wide exam set up by the Civil Service Commission.

New men joining the fire department receive $75 weekly for a year, when their pay goes up to $80. The new men have been assigned to the Central Station, bringing the shifts up to full strength of six men and an officer.
